Côte d'Or: The Heart of Burgundy

Côte d'Or, the crown jewel of Burgundy, is a narrow strip of land stretching approximately 60 kilometers north to south, cradling a constellation of prestigious appellations. This hallowed ground is renowned for its unparalleled Pinot Noir and Chardonnay wines, which showcase the epitome of elegance, complexity, and finesse.

Côte de Nuits

Nestled in the northern part of the Côte d'Or, Côte de Nuits is celebrated for its powerful and structured Pinot Noir wines. The appellation encompasses a series of Grand Cru vineyards, including the legendary Romanée-Conti, regarded as one of the most sought-after and expensive wines in the world.

Côte de Beaune

In the southern part of the Côte d'Or lies Côte de Beaune, known for its more elegant and refined Pinot Noir wines and its exquisite Chardonnay. This appellation is home to prestigious Grand Cru vineyards such as Corton-Charlemagne and Montrachet, renowned for their exceptional balance, finesse, and aging potential.
